

CONTENTS

01

Director's Note

04

The Awakening of the Modern Television Era:
50 Years of Colour TV in Singapore

People weren't particularly interested in upgrading their black-and-white TVs to colour TVs. Then came the World Cup. Mohamad Karazie and Tan Jie Ling

10

30 Years of the Great Singapore Workout

Launched in 1993, the Great Singapore Workout helped spread the message that being physically active was important. Lim Tin Seng

14

Animals, Anxieties and Aspirations: The Earlier Years of the Singapore Zoo

The zoo had to overcome major setbacks in its formative years. Choo Ruizhi

22

At Wat Ananda, Thai Buddhism with a Singaporean Twist

The golden stupa and ornate roofs indicate that this is a Thai Buddhist temple. The Singaporean influences, though, are not hard to spot. Thammika Songkaeo

30

Singapore's Pioneer Cartoonists

Many of the early cartoonists were ideologically motivated and their drawings aimed to bring about social and political change. CT Lim

38

Remembering the Hawkins Road Refugee Camp

A temporary home for Vietnamese refugees, the Hawkins Road camp received thousands of "boat people" over nearly two decades. Rebecca Tan

42

Singapore's Armenian Church Survived Close to 180 Years. Singapore's Original Armenian Community Did Not

Singapore's Persian Armenian community barely survived the war. Then came the demographic collapse. Alvin Tan

49

Laws of Our Land: Foundations of a New Nation

The Singapore Citizenship Ordinance (1957), the Women's Charter (1961) and the Employment Act (1968) have shaped modern Singapore. Kevin Khoo, Mark Wong and Fiona Tan

54

S. Rajaratnam: The Lion's Roar

The second volume of S. Rajaratnam's authorised biography – The Lion's Roar – was launched in July 2024. The journalist-turned-politician was a critical figure in Singapore's early years. Irene Ng

62

The Search for a "Lost" Towkay of Malaya

A man looks at his grandfather with new eyes after a mysterious envelope is found in an old workman's outfit that was about to be thrown away. Phan Ming Yen

68

New Books on Singapore History

Singapore's Orchid Diplomacy, The Great Port Cities of Asia and Dakota 达哥打 are some of the new books available at the National Library.

04 Phua Chu Kang – the best in Singapore, JB, and some say Batam

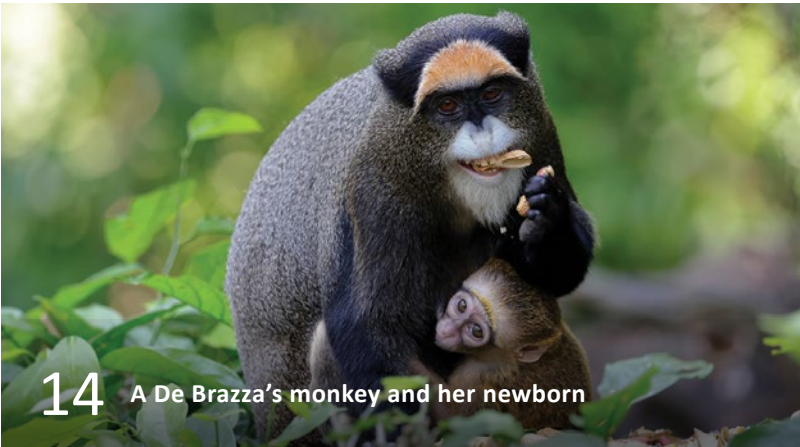

22 The main hall of Wat Ananda

30 Bala on the Moon was illustrated by Kwan Shan Mei

10 Doing the Great Singapore Workout

14 A De Brazza's monkey and her newborn

42 The Armenian Church

Image credits, clockwise from top left: Mediacorp Pte Ltd; Ministry of Information and the Arts Collection, National Archives of Singapore; Mandai Wildlife Group; Jimmy Yap; Educational Publications Bureau; Jimmy Yap